Petco parakeet return policy

Note: I realized the username I made for this account seemed awful - I meant that the account is throwaway, not pets. A week and a half ago after a lot of research I decided to get a ferret. I am a protective mongoose of my apt, I got all the supplies, then bought a beautiful young male (Frankie) from the local Petik. He's very attached to me, I'm with him, etc. Unfortunately, I realized too late that my girlfriend (she doesn't live with me, but we're serious and she's often) very sensitive to him. This means that when we spend some time together, it must be in place, which means if I spend some time with her my mongoose must be in his cage even after getting off the job. I was counting on the three of us hanging out at my house but because of my girlfriend's sensitivity that doesn't seem like a possible option the other issue (not a big deal, but worth noting) is that my ferret is deaf. As far as it cuts me, I think it would be in everyone's interest if Frankie came back. I don't think bringing him back to Petco would be bad for him, as he would be back with his brothers, still only 10 weeks old, and it would be just as desirable as others for future owners. But, I don't know if the btco return policy will refund me money because of my girlfriend's allergies, or if they do so unless there is a health problem. It's where his design comes in - I think that's a problem that would qualify me to come back frankie (and to be fair, it made it difficult to train him), but it's not the honest reason I'm thinking of redirecting it. The alternative, of course, would be to try to find it a house via Craigslist or something, but I'm very skeptical of the people out there. I think my question is: Does Petco recover my money under the 30-day warranty either because a) my girlfriend has allergies, or b) my mongoose is deaf? The other question is, financial aside, do you all think it would be in my mongoose's interest to bring it back to the store, or try to bring him back online. TL; DR: Bought (deaf) mongoose, found girlfriend allergy. I think I should bring him home- will I get a refund and Petco, would it be better to bring it back to the store or find it another way?
